

Marco Polo, David Livingstone... explorers found the unknown worlds that have become today's travel destinations. Now there is no part of the world that a satellite cannot see, yet it isn't true to say that there is no world left to explore.

Within the regions that we cover, you can explore whatever it is that you might have long wanted to know more about – Romanian monasteries, porcelain factories in Hungary, the last home of Nicholas II and Alexandra, and more.

We can design an independent itinerary for you that takes you to all of the places that are on your must-see list, and suggest to you some places which you might not know about.

Some people like their own company, others like to travel in company; whichever way you like to travel, our escorted tours never have more than twenty people, and you can be as independent as you wish.
